71st Bronx-Westchester Christmas Bird Count December 26, 1994

The 71st Bronx-Westchester Christmas Bird Count recorded 114 species and 44,184 birds.

Warm weather was the story for this year. The temperature for the prior two months was well above normal and there was no significant freeze before the count. The results reflected this with a record number of warbler species seen - SEVEN! Previously, four species have been seen on three other counts, 1961, 1981 and 1987. The seven species included Yellow-rumped Warblers. Common Yellowthroat (Rye), Wilson's Warbler (Rye, second record), Yellow-breasted Chat (near Saw Mill R.), two Nashville Warblers (one in Riverdale and one in Hommock Park, Larchmont, third time on count) and two species that are new to the count

Carpenter Pond in Scarsdale. Its the eighth straight year we've added new species to the count. The count has now recorded 212 species plus an additional 7 other subspecies or forms.

ESTCHESTER

Other highlights included three Great Egrets, two Merlin, Wild Turkey, one in Van Cortlant Park and 5 in Rye, and two Lesser Black-backed Gulls (9th straight year) and House Wren (17th count record and 9th time in last 15 years).

There were twelve new or tied high counts. Brant (806), Lesser Scaup (352), Hooded Merganser (196), Red-breasted Merganser (725, the old record was 650 way back in 1941), Red-tailed Hawk (103), Red-bellied Woodpecker (95), Winter Wren (24), Great Egret (3), Merlin (2), Turkey Vulture (2), Wild Turkey (6), Nashville Warbler (2).

The warm weather and decline of Canvasback ducks resulted in a 45 year low for them with only 156 birds. Over the previous 20 years their average was 2423, but their previous 5 year average is 730.

Ring-necked Pheasant and American Kestrel continued with low numbers

The most interesting non-avian sighting this year was a basking Red-eared Turtle, indicative of the warm weather we've had so far.

Thanks to the 69 plus participants and the 36 who showed up for the compilation dinner.

Due to Christmas Eve falling on Sunday in 1995, next years count will be held SATURDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1995, this is unavoidable. The good news is that we're free from the holidays after next year to the year 2000. Future dates: Sunday Dec. 29, 1996, Sunday Dec. 28,1997, and probably Sunday Dec. 27,1998 and Sunday Dec. 26, 1999.

Have a HAPPY NEW YEAR!
